DESCRIPTION
This 4 day course equips educators, criminal justice practitioners and others to understand and apply restorative justice practices in their work environments. We will cover core concepts as well as circle processes and victim-offender dialogues.

OBJECTIVES
• Train faculty about how to create Restorative Justice courses at the university level
• Train criminal justice practitioners who to use RJ processes in many application areas (e.g. prisons, probation, parole, RSO’s, social workers for re-entry)
• Train educators and non-profit leaders to employ restorative practices in their daily work.

TRAINERS
• John Lash, Executive Director of Georgia Conflict Center
• Adriana Helenek, President at BI-National Group, Inc.
