It is always KSU’s goal that students guide their own educational process, and when difficulties arise along the way we are here to help. When students experience medical or psychological emergencies that impede their ability to successfully remain enrolled at KSU, an administrative withdrawal can help students focus on healing without harming their academic record. Students should always consult the catalog and appropriate office websites for full policies and procedures that might otherwise impact them before pursuing an administrative withdrawal. Review the documents below thoroughly. If you have questions or need more information after reviewing all documents, contact the Office of the Dean of Students at: deanofstudents@kennesaw.edu or call 470-578-6367.

After the deadline the only options are Incompletes from professors (if eligible) or appeals to the Academic Standing Committee.

Additional assistance
Sometimes things happen that are out of our control. Please be informed of the services offered with Counseling and Psychological Services. One of which is personal counseling. Personal counseling is focused on the emotional, psychological, spiritual, and physical issues impacting one’s ability to function at a normal level. Typical issues include depression, stress, anxiety, relationship issues, self-esteem, anger management, grief and loss and many more. They also offer group counseling for currently enrolled students during the semester as well.

All currently enrolled students are eligible to come for counseling. Brief consultations are available for students who have a concern about someone in their lives. Services for counseling are free to all currently enrolled students.
